

Since I registered on the Do Not Call List, we have had zero calls from telemarketers, except for a few charities and companies we actually do business with. I strongly urge the FCC not to weaken this extremely beneficial law. This has truly been one of the most effective laws on the books, and one which benefits the average citizen, rather than business and money interests.